HISTORY & KNOW-HOW

A creator

A perfect mastery of metal fabrication techniques allowed JC BORDELET to become the irrefutable reference in the field of fireplace designers and manufacturing. The creations demand great audacity and conviction to challenge existing conventions. This is how, since 1982, Jean-Claude Bordelet has imposed its style and signature. Presenting at a Parisian trade show a central fireplace, suspended by its top, open on all sides and lacquered blue. Since then, innovation has continued and the company keeps placing itself at the avant-garde of its profession: customization, innovation, and advanced techniques structuring the new breakthroughs of the company.

A creative compagny

In 1976, the designer JC BORDELET specialised in the study and manufacturing of fireplaces. Very quickly he found its place at the avant-garde of fireplace creation by integrating colour and the perfect mastering of metal working. Since then, the philosophy has not changed: seriousness, innovation, know-how and reliability are the motivation, which have allowed the designer to become an irrefutable reference. In joining the Seguin group in 2006 which shares similar values, the company JC BORDELET expanded its network with a renowned expertise, making the choice to place its creations within everyone's reach.

A product

A fireplace must of course be operational, but it must also reflect your personality and sense of style. If you approach us today, it is not by chance. When you choose JC BORDELET, you choose one of the leading manufacturer of metallic fireplaces and stoves with high quality production and exceptional finishing. With original designs, audacious colours and fluidity of shapes, for over 30 years the company has imposed itself as a non-conformist creator. The know-how for lacquered fireplaces is perfectly mastered in our specialist workshops, which allows us to offer a pallet of 180 colours for the majority of our creations.

FRENCH DESIGN INSTITUTE

The fireplace EVA 992 central color has been rewarded by JANUS.
What's «JANUS» ?

Depicted as having two heads, JANUS is one of the most ancient and important Roman god. He had the same prominence as Jupiter. Janus was the god of gates, passages and more generally «beginnings».

He «opens» the door to a new way for design and creation.

Janus, «heads of gods», presided creation. Nowadays, JANUS is a label which rewards companies for the quality of their design. To get the JANUS award, the following criteria are considered :

- innovation on the market
- functionality regarding service, ergonomics and easiness of use of the products
- coherence between the aestheticism, the choice of materials and the use of the product
- the environment challenge because the design becomes integrated into a global citizen step and because the respect of the environment is today as important as the human or the commercial aspects.

The JANUS is awarded by an independent jury composed of fifty voluntary specialists, journalists, manufacturers, architects, designers. They meet several times a year. The products are selected among the biggest European companies and the small and medium sized ones. Those companies manage to prove that the design :

- integrates their know-how and improves their positions
- renews the technical and marketing expertise with the search for excellence.

Because Today is already Tomorrow, the French Design Institute involves itself to promote the culture of Design on products which have their own identity regarding aestheticism and functionality.
